Everything I have said here is the truth and there's nothing made up, false, or exaggerated. I understand I cannot be under the influence of any drugs (alcohol included) while I am volunteering. I do not object to random drug testing if suspected. I will respect the rules of the organization and follow instructions. If I steal or allow anyone to steal from the Free Food Pantry, even though the food is free, I will be liable for the value of everything stolen and I will pay it back myself. I promise to smile a lot, even when I am not happy, and treat every single customer like they are the most important person in the world. If I see anyone doing anything they should not be doing, I will let Melissa know immediately. If I don't, I participated in it and will be responsible for anything that comes of it, so "see something, say something" will be my middle name.
